You will be met by a mountain guide or outdoor trainer at each station. They will explain the tasks, ensure execution, and distribute the respective points.

The following stations are available to choose from:

Archery:

Target accuracy and skill are required to gather as many team points as possible.

Beer crate climbing:

You have to stack beer crates one on top of the other and stand on the top box. Of course, the climbers will be secured with belt and rope.

LVS station:

Modern scavenger hunt - Find the prize using the latest digital technology with an accuracy of 0.1 m. For technology freaks, strategists, coordinators, and anyone with common sense.

Tandem-skiing:

In tandem-skiing, you have between three to four people getting on an exceptional pair of skis. Once strapped in, you will go through the parcource we have set up for you. Of course, you will have to overcome a few obstacles.

Yeti-Parcourse:

You will go on the slopes with snowshoes, the biggest shoes of the season. Even if it looks simple, we have come up with something to make it challenging. Get through the course!

Carpet pulling:

True coordination skills are necessary for this activity: everyone has to jump at the same time, and the person pulling the carpet has to do so at the same time, so your team moves forward.

Igloo building:

The construction of an igloo is no witchcraft. Logical thinking, coordinated work, and the help of each individual participant are the keys to success. Construction of a shell igloo for 3 to 5 people (the construction which is most effective under normal snow conditions).

Mohawk walk:

You have to cross a course of rope stretched between poles with distances of about 4 to 6 meters each, without falling down. In the ideal case, the exercise is only completed when none of the team members fall. In order to take turns being the guide for the team, it can be agreed that the team members who had ground contact have to again go through the entire course again.

Biathlon target shooting:

Concentration and a steady hand are important to actually hitting the official Biathlon folding targets. You will shoot with high-quality laser guns. When the pulse rate and the breathing rates are increased, it becomes really difficult to hit the target. The real talents show themselves when shooting.

Little Peter's moon ride:

The tightrope walkers will have to dare the tightrope walking with their eyes closed. Your colleagues will try to keep them in balance.

Acid pond:

Who will defuse the bomb in the middle of the acid pond?

After the event, a victory ceremony takes place and awards will be given.
