Bavarian Olympics

Would you prefer a bit more rustic and traditional activity? Really funny and hearty without a tie? Then our farmer diploma is just right for you. A real alpine pasture in the countryside provides just the right environment for the farmer diploma. Break free from the city for once. An event, where not a single eye will stay dry.

You will get pick you up with a bus exclusively reserved for you and take you into the mountains and forests. Our outdoor trainers and guides will already be expecting you for a fun event.

After a short, warm welcome with a schnapps for everyone, our guides will introduce themselves and the teams will be divided. On request, we can organize Goasslschnalzer (traditional Bavarian performance with horsewhips) and alphorn-blowers.

Next, you will go through all stations and collect as many points as you can. The key figure is the “Alm-Öhi,” who must optimally coordinate his/her co-workers and spur them on to peak performance.

Your farmer's diploma can consist of several of the following activities:

Nail hammering:

With a hammer and a nail, you get working on a tree stump against time. With all that strong will to win, please mind your fingers!

Milk the cow:

"Trudi," the cow, is waiting to be milked by you. You should start with a lot of finesse and nimble hands, so that the bucket fills up quickly and "Trudi" does not strike out.

Beer mug lifting

Who can hold up the famous mug the longest? Buff upper arms are clearly an advantage here. Cheating by "drinking away the foam" is not allowed by the way.

Sawing 250g of tree trunk:

Here you have to estimate.

Beer mug Sliding:

Push the mug along a 5m long soap board.

Throwing a hat:

How many hats you can place?

Throwing rubber boots:

Who will score in the golden mean?

Horseshoe throwing

Giant Ski course:

It's all about the right agreement and joint coordination

The highlight and reward for the work done is the presentation of the “diploma certificate.” Of course, prizes will also be awarded as mementos of the event.

The following prizes are available:

- Beer mugs made of stoneware
- Jam from the dairymaid
- Tegernseer Busserl (Nougar Kisses)
- Schnapps bottles from the distillery
- Shot bottles from the Rottacher distillery
- Tegernsee coffee mugs filled with pralines from the local confectionery

Following the program, there will be a lodge party in the evening.

Team Challenge

Our mountain guides and outdoor trainers will welcome you at the starting point and divide you into smaller teams. Afterwards, you will start independently to the stations. You can complete between 3 and 4 stations per hour.

At each station you will be accompanied by a mountain guide. This explains the task and ensures its implementation.

The following stations are available for you to choose from:

Little Peter's moon ride:

The tightrope walkers will have to dare the tightrope walking with their eyes closed. Your colleagues will try to keep them in balance.

(Team and trust station)

Jakob's ladder:

Only with the help of colleagues can this giant ladder be conquered!

(Station for cooperation and communication)

Mohawk walk:

You have to cross a course of rope stretched between poles with distances of about 4 to 6 meters each without falling down. In the ideal case, the exercise is only completed when none of the team members fall. In order to take turns being the guide for the team, it can be agreed that the team members who had ground contact again have to go through the entire course again.

Spider web:

Which team brings all the team members through the web gaps without touching the web?

(Team, communication and trust station)

Archery:

Goal accuracy and skill are required to gather as many points as possible.

(Station for concentration)

River crossing:

Only a limited amount of material is available. Which team still remains dry?

(Station for cooperation and communication)

Acid pond:

Who will defuse the bomb in the middle of the acid pond?

(Team station for cooperation and communication)

Burma bridge:

The canyon has to be crossed. Rope, helmet, and harness are ready. Will the team accomplish the given task in the given time? A certain degree of effort is involved in addition to strategic thinking.

(Station for motivation)

Flying fox:

Who bravely descends into the valley?

(Station for motivation)

Company knot

The entire team tries to tie this knot together. All team members must have both hands on the rope.... (Teamwork)

Beer crate climbing:

You have to stack beer crates one on top of the other and stand on the top box. Of course, the climbers will be secured with belt and rope.

(Team station for communication, cooperation, motivation, and trust)

Handmade paper mill tour and papermaking tour

Paper is patient. Every elementary school student already learns this. But hardly anyone knows that there are umpteen different types of paper. Have you ever heard of beer paper or mohair paper? Sensual like leather, velvety and soft like an angora sweater, exciting like Africa, shimmering like gold - paper can be so versatile. If you were not yet aware of this, you should hurry to the handmade paper factory as quickly as possible.

There you can not only find out why the paper is also called handmade paper, but also convince yourself of the diversity of paper culture with your own eyes on a one-hour tour of sightseeing. The Gmünd family business has been in existence since 1829 and has barely more than 100 employees. Tradition in production is very important here and combined with state-of-the-art technology and creative design. What comes out of it? Fine papers and cardboard that are perfected with the right mix of ecology, tradition and innovation to create ever new creations of high-quality fine papers. Grain components from the mash are processed as well as bark, straw, feathers and peat.

Minimum number of participants: 10 people

Location: Gmund

Duration: starting at 2 hours
